HITCHCOCK AND THE W. C. T. U.

In the interests of temperance reform we have a few more words to say, anent the remarkable gathering on the occasion of ex-Marshall Hitchcock's parting with the members of the Citizens' Guard. We have long felt that real temperance reform is not to be effected by inserting in the Advertiser paragraphs of twaddle with W. C. T. U. attached to them—that what is really wanted is action, not words. What we have to say may be deemed a homily, but it is not with any purpose to usurp the rights and privileges of the estimable ladies who compose that moribund institution that is represented by the initials W. C. T. U. We say moribund advisedly, and with a desire to resuscitate the institution. We have to suggest a campaign of aggression.

The first movement is to demand a sight of the bills for liquor furnished to the Station House on the order of Marshal Hitchcock, during the riotous days of January last.

The frenzy of fear that possessed the Marshal and his aids would have incapacitated those valorous persons unless a courage born of whisky had been produced; but the stimulant got the better of the officials, and reason lost its sway.

This accounts for the wholesale arrests and imprisonments that marked those fateful days of January, when among other unfortunates Durrell was locked up and treated like a felon. Days and weeks passed before reason resumed its sway, the consumption of whisky having been lessened, an account of stock was taken at the prison. When the article was inventoried Douelle, a Portuguese, was sought for, he could not be found; but in his place and stead was Mr. Durrell, an American citizen, who was told to go as he was not wanted.

Mr. Durrell has now presented his little bill for settlement, and the collector means business; but the doughty ex-Marshall and Captain McStocker say that the collector will get the claim, "where the chicken got the axe." This boast being no doubt inspired by more stimulant.

Now let the W. C. T. U. watch the outcome of all this whisky and they will have material enough to point many a moral and adorn many a tale; but for statistical purposes we desire the cost of the whisky, which the ladies can obtain—not the whisky, but the cost.

Housekeepers will do well in calling at the store of L. B. Kerr and inspecting his large stock of towels and linen glass cloth. A large assortment at very reasonable prices.

Sans Souci.

The most lovely spot on Oahu is Sans Souci. This favorite seaside resort, which has been immortalized by the pen of Robert L. Stevenson, who resided there for months, is only four miles from Honolulu and within easy reach of the tramcars. The surroundings and bathing at this famous resort are superior to anything found in the Hawaiian Islands. Cottages and board can be obtained on easy terms. The table set by the manager is better than any offered here at other hotels. For picnics, bathing parties and outings the best accommodation can be secured by giving notice to the manager.
